To our customers, partners and colleagues:

The COVID-19 pandemic is affecting every single one of us, our families, our businesses, and our communities. While there is a tremendous amount of uncertainty in our lives, JCM Global has absolute confidence we will stand together to overcome these challenges and come out stronger over time.

The health and safety of people remains our top priority, and JCM Global is doing everything we can to keep our team members and communities safe while we continue to support our business partners and their communities.

During this critical time, JCM Global has implemented temporary policies restricting team members travel and work locations to limit potential exposure and assist in slowing the spread of the virus. Our team members remain reachable through email and telephone to assist and answer questions.

As we navigate the coming weeks, we are here to listen to your business concerns and are committed to getting through this time together. Let us know how we can help by contacting your local JCM representative today.

JCM Global is truly grateful for your support and partnership, as we all stand together to overcome this unprecedented challenge.

Sincerely,

JCM Global
